Master of Science Organizational Effectiveness and Leadership

Flexible, Affordable, Online Degrees

The Program

Are you pursuing a management or leadership position within an organization? Are you a middle or senior manager, or executive, looking for new ways to drive organizational performance and improve your organization's value proposition? Our Master of Science in Organizational Effectiveness and Leadership guides students in developing and enhancing their personal leadership style and skill sets to optimize individual, group, and organizational performance.

Invest in Your Future

There is no reason a student today must absorb the burden of a high-cost education and corresponding debt to pursue one's dream of earning an advanced degree. Charter Oak offers a flexible, high-quality, low-cost master's degree that allows you to invest in your future; not leverage it.

Graduates of the Master of Science in Organizational Effectiveness and Leadership program will be able to:

- Lead, formulate, and implement organizational change strategies to achieve the organization's mission.
- Create and lead local, national, and international self-directed, cross functional, and virtual work teams.
- Identify and implement continuous improvement strategies to improve organizational efficiency and effectiveness.
- Lead, motivate, coach, mentor, and develop associates and groups to achieve measurable results.
- Utilize applied research to analyze and solve complex organizational problems.
